PARAPHERNALIA DESTROYED BY SHERIFF

Gambling Fixtures, Seized Some Months Since, Were Burned By Order of the Court.

A large quantity of gambling paraphernalia, consisting of everything necessary to run a gambling house, was destroyed yesterday by Sheriff Van Pelt, the same being placed in a pile in the rear of the county jail, where the torch was applied.

This furniture, which had a valuation of several thousand dollars, was seized some months ago, when the county officials made a raid upon some gambling houses, and arrested not only the proprietors and employees, but also players, all of whom were heavily fined.

Under the law all paraphernalia of this nature must be destroyed by the sheriff, and it was so ordered by the court. It has been stored at the county jail since the raids, being in custody of the sheriff. Yesterday the sheriff decided to have a big fire, and piling up all of the fine wheels and tables, he set fire to them, and they were consumed within a short time.

PRIVATE COINAGE.

At One Time It Was Quite Common In This Country.

The history of the issue of coins in this country by private individuals and companies would make a very interesting book. When gold was struck in North Carolina a man named Bechter started a mint of his own there, which was abolished by law in 1840. Half eagles, quarter eagles and one dollar pieces issued by him were largely circulated in the south and west. Although of honest gold, they were about 2½ per cent under value on an average. About the same time Templeton Reid coined gold in Georgia. He moved to California in 1849 and minted eagles and twenty-five dollar pieces on a considerable scale. Many companies and refineries in California and elsewhere made a business of striking gold coins during the same period. Naturally there was a great temptation to make these coins under weight and of inferior fineness. The Mormons in Utah issued eagles, half eagles and double eagles which bore on the obverse an eye, with the legend, "Holiness to the Lord."

Quantities of twenty-five cent and fifty cent gold pieces were likewise manufactured at San Francisco, the former containing only about six cents' worth of the metal and the latter twelve cents' worth. Years ago a lot of these were taken over to Germany and circulated there, which elicited a formal diplomatic protest from that government. The private minting business was finally stopped.

A FISH THAT FIGHTS.

The Aggressive and Irresistible Plakat of Siam.

So aggressive is the plakat, a little fish from Siam, that the entertainment it affords has become a national pastime. The fishes are trained to go through regular battles and are reared artificially for the purpose, while the license to exhibit them to the general public is farmed out and brings a large amount of money into the royal coffers. They are kept in aquariums built for the purpose and fed upon the larvae of mosquitoes and every possible care taken of them. When the fish is in a quiet state, with the fins at rest, the dull colors are not at all remarkable. But if two are brought together or within sight of each other, or even if one sees its own image in a looking glass, the little creature becomes suddenly excited.

The fins are raised, and the whole body shines with metallic luster and colors of dazzling beauty, while the protecting gill membrane, waving like a black frill round the throat, makes grotesque the general appearance. In this state of irritation it makes repeated darts at its real or reflected antagonist. If two are placed together in a tank they rush at each other with the utmost fury. The battle is kept on until one is killed or put to flight, but not until they are entirely separated does the victor shut his gaudy fins, that, like legs of war, are never lowered until peace has been declared.

Poles and Russians.

Hugo Ganz in his book on Russia writes as follows of the relations existing between the Russian officials and the Poles: "They remain separate, like oil and water. The Russian, even though he is the master, is of no consequence here. It is only necessary to observe for the space of an hour from some corner of the elegant dining room of the hotel the behavior of the Polish society and the complete isolation of the Russian officers or officials. It is only necessary to be able to distinguish the groups from one another—the Baltic nobility with their almost bourgeois families, merchants from all the principal countries, Russian functionaries and Polish society—and it will at once become clear who is at home here, firmly rooted to the soil, so that all others become strangers and intruders. It is the Poles, and the Poles alone."

TARPON IS NOW FUMIGATED EACH TRIP

Cannot Enter Port of Pensacola From Mobile Unless She Goes to Quarantine for this Purpose.

As an illustration of the strictness of the quarantine regulations now in force, it is but necessary to state that the coast steamer Tarpon is fumigated each week on her return trip from Mobile, and every person on board the vessel is also compelled to go through the strict examination required of those who come by rail.

The Tarpon goes out each Sunday night for Mobile, after returning from her regular trip to St. Andrews, Apalachicola and Carrabelle. She is due back to this port Tuesday morning from Mobile, but, of course, does not reach here until in the afternoon, owing to the fumigation and examination.

The vessel is not subjected to this fumigation except when coming from Mobile.

The vessel brought in a fair cargo yesterday afternoon from the above point, most of the goods being consigned to local merchants.

RUSSIAN TROOPS IN CONSPIRACY

"Of course," responded the girl bitterly. "And if I would marry you you would hang to life like a bulldog. But that's the way it goes."—Detroit Tribune.

Retribution.

Millions of years had passed. Birds had succeeded to the supremacy formerly held by man.
"What is that you are wearing on your hat?" asked the flamingo.
"It's the scalp of an almost extinct biped called a woman," replied the egret. "A few specimens of the creature still exist. I am told, in the inaccessible fastnesses of the everglades."—Chicago Tribune.

QUINCY

Special to The Journal.

Quincy, Aug. 22.—The tobacco crop grown in this county this year is much larger than ever before and has practically all been sold, much of it while it was in the field. Owing to the excessive rainfall, the quality is not thought by many to come up to the usual standard of excellence of Gadsden county tobacco but a good price was generally realized by the farmers, especially the Sumatra shade grown here.

The various packing houses are now crowded to their utmost capacity in receiving and caring for the leaf tobacco as it is packed in boxes and brought to market. As many as 140 wagons were seen last week waiting at one time in front of one packing house to be unloaded.

As a result of the large yield of all crops and the excellent prices received for the tobacco crop, every line of business is now in a prosperous condition here.

Several weeks ago the citizens of Quincy met and decided that unless they were better passenger service by the Seaboard Air Line Railway at this place, they would withdraw their patronage from that road as much as possible and haul their freight through the country from Paceville, Ga. As soon as the officials were officially notified of the action of the citizens by the board of trade, they at once promised to give us two passenger trains a day each way, the same as Tallahassee, 25 miles east of here on the same road has. Since that time nothing seems to have been done by the railroad toward a fulfillment of its promise, and it is thought by many they are waiting till the merchants get all their fall goods in, when it will damage the road much less for them to withdraw their patronage.

Work on the G. F. & A. Railway extension from Havana, Fla. to Quincy, which will give us a more direct outlet to the north, is being pushed as rapidly as possible, and will probably be in operation by the last of the year.

Convenient.

There was once in a North Carolina court a case that has gone down as history in the judicial annals of the state. It appears that a debtor named Jenkins, when solicited to close an old open account by note, agreed to do so provided he should be allowed to draft the instrument. This was granted him, whereupon he presented the creditor with the following:

"I, Samuel Jenkins, agree to pay John Huggins $200 whenever convenient, but it is understood that said Jenkins is not to be pushed. Witness my hand and seal this day of — Samuel Jenkins."—Harper's Weekly.

Better Than His Own.

They were discussing the factors which make for success in the world when the knowing young man said: "There's nothing like force of character. Now, there's Jones! Sure to make his way in the world. He's a will of his own, you know."

"But Brown has something better in his favor."
"What's that?"
"A will of his uncle's."

Down on His Luck.

"Oh, John," she exclaimed as she observed him getting into his overcoat, "I hope you're not going to be out again tonight!"
"I hope not," he replied absentmindedly, "but it's quite likely. The cards have been running very badly for me lately."—Philadelphia Ledger.

With big shipments of goods on the way from Europe, for fall trade, we must prepare a way for their display and there's only one way to do it—get rid of the single pieces and odds and ends that take up lots of room.

We've made big reductions on all such things and the next few days ought to bring a change of ownership of every piece that is underpriced.

It will, if you realize that opportunity knocks at your door this week—knocks loud and long.
